Statement:

I look forward to again representing, the Aleutian Islands, Alaska Peninsula and Bristol Bay, with the addition of several new communities in the lower Interior Region.

I'm optimistic about what we can achieve in the next two years. However, there are going to be challenges ahead as the state enters into an extended period of deficit spending. Subsequently, I will use my experience in the legislature to do everything possible to protect our district from budget cuts.

The biggest issue we face is the rising cost of goods and services, especially energy. We must continue to pursue long-term solutions that benefit rural Alaska, including a natural gas pipeline. In the meantime, existing services must be kept intact. That's why I support expanding PCE and maintaining funding for programs like Weatherization, Heating Assistance, and the Renewable Energy Grant Fund.

Strong capital budgets are critical to the future of rural Alaska. I strongly support the funding of basic services and creating economic opportunities and jobs at the local level.

Our future depends on quality education for our children. It is essential to keep the K-12 funding formula at a level that will enable smaller schools to keep pace with ever-increasing costs and uncertainty in annual student enrollments. I do not support amending the Alaska constitution so state money can be used for private schools.

With your support this fall, it will be my privilege to continue serving in the Alaska legislature on behalf of the communities in House District 37.
