Statement:

This election is not about what has happened in the past, it is using what we have learned from the past to understand the future direction of Alaska. Education, jobs, energy, infrastructure and responsible resource development will define that future for all Alaskans.

As a state legislator, education must be addressed so to insure our children are afforded the best chance for a successful career in life.

Government needs to stop competing and get out of the business of being in business. We need to provide a climate that encourages economic growth for industry and business opportunities in the private sector. If we do this, the private sector will take the risk and the open markets will provide opportunities for competition, increasing product quality, wage and salaries for our workforce.

Providing infrastructure is paramount to economic growth and production. We cannot be short sighted when determining the best investment in infrastructure that will best achieve economic growth and job stability for our future.

Our constitution states we are to develop our natural resources. It is our responsibility as legislators to work diligently to understand how to responsibly develop those resources to provide cheaper energy costs.

As legislators we need to understand that rural Alaska plays the biggest part in stabilizing the economic security of our state than we could ever imagine.

I will endeavor to maintain these aspects of our future when elected to office.
