I served as President of Sand Lake Community Council from 1999-2007.

Statement:

It takes much courage and strength and energy to run for any public office. I say thank you to all who have signed on the dotted line to serve their communities, cities and our state.

There are many tough decisions ahead that face Alaskans. It is time to strategically plan for responsible spending. It is critical that we be prepared with strategic planning for the plentiful times and the lean times.

Keeping oil flowing through our pipeline is the answer. Oil is a natural resource that has been very good to all of us living here.

I believe that families are the basic building block of society. Strong families make strong communities and strong communities make strong schools. Together, we really are community strong!

I have a heart for the next generation.

One of our biggest opportunities with great challenges is helping to prepare/train the next generation to understand and to engage in public policy. Their need to be equipped to serve their generation is needed now.

Our ideas and our actions all have consequences.
