Statement:

Throughout my service to Alaska, I've worked to protect the unique beauty, abundant resources, and resilient people of our state. Whether it's protecting our economy from job-killing rules and regulations, empowering families and small businesses with new opportunities, or defending the constitution; I've always fought to do what's right for Alaska.

While our state has experienced many successes throughout our history, the work to protect Alaska's future is far from over. We are faced with a barrage of one size fits all, "Washington knows best" policies that jeopardize our already sensitive economy, lock away our lands and resources, and ignore the needs of our people. After eight long years under the Obama Administration and no guarantee the landscape will be any different in 2017, now, more than ever, Alaskans need a proven and experienced fighter in congress to push back against the federal government's heavy hand.

With the confidence you've entrusted in me, and the relationships I've built in Congress, I'm strategically positioned to defend Alaska's interests as a senior member of two powerful committees and as the Chairman of the Indian, Insular and Alaska Native Affairs Subcommittee. Through these key positions and a deep passion for our people, I'm confident that Alaska will continue to shape the many policy debates needed to build a stronger, more vibrant state for generations to come.

My motivation and enthusiasm for the Alaskan people remains as strong as ever. With your support I look forward to continuing our fight for Alaska's future.
