Political and Government Positions:

Fish and Wildlife Technician II position in Kodiak

Special Interests:

I enjoy camping, adventuring and writing. I spend much of my spare time researching how to address the problems that face Alaskans and the rest of humanity.

Other:

In September 2009 I was in an accident that left me and my dog down the side of the hill for over 5 days. My legs had to be amputated below the knees because of gangrene due to frostbite. This has helped me to see what really matters – people, their well-being, and sticking to positive principles over adversity.

It's time for a change. I'm asking for your vote for the Alaska State House. It's time our elected leaders start putting Alaskans above politics and special interests.

The failed "War on Drugs" – We are wasting resources and lives on a strategy that doesn't work. Drug abuse, like alcohol abuse, needs to be treated as a mental health issue rather than a criminal issue. Addicts need help, not jail time.

People, not big oil – We must stop giving away our oil wealth and protect our dividend. We are basically paying outside corporations to take our oil. Our money and influence should be used to promote job and economic growth, not for corporate socialism as it is today.

Preventing violence – Guns are just a means, they can be used for good and bad. We must focus on preventing violence through education, building strong communities and improving our mental health care system. Communities and the state must work together to find what works and what doesn't so that we can prevent as much violence as possible.

Diversify the economy, Job growth – We need to invest in cost-effective renewable energy projects, safe strategic minerals development and break into new industries such as year-round arctic gardens and industrial hemp. We must encourage new small businesses and their sustainability.

I will hold all government officials accountable for their actions. I will stand up for ALL of Alaskans' rights and will stay true to my values over the party line.
