Statement:

Statesmen and authentic public servants devote themselves to the next generation. Politicians, on the other hand, are focused on the next election. I aspire to be a statesman. It is true, to those who protect it, freedom has a special meaning the protected may never know. As a military veteran, former police officer and now as a firefighter, I am humbled to carry the torch once held high by better men than I, many of whom gave their lives on our behalf, and left us a legacy of freedom and safety unknown in most parts of the world. As a police officer, I am familiar with the challenges that members of the Alaska law enforcement community face as they strive to protect the safety and property of Alaskans on a daily basis. As a firefighter, I welcome the opportunity to fight other people's battles for them, and to use my training to win those battles to protect lives and property. I will bring that experience and commitment with me to the state legislature.

Experience and philosophy both lead me to the strong conviction that Alaskan families are best served by limited government and empowers them to exercise self-government and thus be able to enjoy the fruits of self-government handed down to us by
