Statement:

Alaskans are a courageous, bold, and hearty group. From the first Alaskans so many thousands of years ago, to the most recent transplant, people from all over the world call Alaska home. Alaskans give as much as they receive and for the most part, that balance has been a good fit.

We are required by the Alaska Constitution to honor specific commitments.

Critical to Alaska's economic vitality is quality education, which we are expected to provide. This is not an option...It is a constitutional mandate!

We are to develop, secure, and distribute Alaska's share of its wealth: wealth that is responsibly managed, recorded, and maintained for public review and scrutiny. The economic vitality of Alaska and its people requires transparency of financial stewardship.

We are to act humanely for the health needs of all Alaskans. When our fellow citizens struggle with mental illness and drug addiction, every Alaskan is affected. The price we pay to give attention to and care for these issues is a good and honorable investment: an investment with long-term benefits to our communal health and economic vitality.

In short, we will meet the constitutional requirements for quality education and healthy living. Reclaiming our share of Alaska's wealth gives every Alaskan the financial wherewithal to do what has to be done: to build, secure, and maintain an infrastructure that is economically critical to the vitality of Alaska and its people.

Your vote validates the decisions of your elected officials. You want a constitutionally inspired decision maker.
