Statement:

I am a firm believer that Alaska's best days are still ahead. Our state needs a spirit of optimism that is focused on refreshing ideas and solutions without party labels.

Being a lifelong Alaskan, my wife and I chose to raise our family in the same Anchorage neighborhood in which I grew up. I want my children and my neighbors to have great opportunities and community like I had – and we can do that by directing our attention to what is best for Alaska and working together. Without a sustainable long term plan, none of our other Legislative priorities matter. We can't improve our schools, safeguard our fisheries, develop other resources, or maintain our roads and bridges if we don't stay solvent. If elected, my #1 commitment to my constituents is that I will NOT prioritize my reelection over making the right decisions.

As a husband and father of three young children, it's hard to put personal and professional goals on hold to serve in Juneau. But I will not sit idle while elected officials spend our savings, exhaust our options, and harm our state. Though it might be tough, I am committed to a fiscal solution that creates long-term certainty and gives Alaskans reason to believe we're on the right track.

My neighbors deserve to have a leader that listens and works with them. You will not find anyone more passionate about my district, this State and our future.
