Position Statement:

Throughout my service to Alaska, I've worked to protect the unique beauty, abundant resources, and resilient people of our state. Whether it's defending our economy from job killing rules and regulations, empowering families and small businesses with new opportunities, or upholding the constitution, I've always stood up and fought for Alaska.

Our state has experienced many successes and the work to protect Alaska's future is far from over. We are faced with a barrage of one size fits all, "Washington knows best" policies that jeopardize our already sluggish economy, lock away our land and resources, and ignore the needs of our people. The 2016 election sent a clear message to D.C. bureaucrats. Enough is enough. I have worked to roll back burdensome regulations, deliver tax relief and unleash Alaska's leadership potential in energy production and I still have more I want to do.

With the confidence you've entrusted in me, and the relationships I've built in Congress, I'm strategically positioned to defend Alaska's interests. As a senior member of two powerful committees and as Chairman Emeritus of the Natural Resources Committee, I continue to advocate for our great state. With these key roles and a deep passion for our people, I'm confident that Alaska will shape many policy debates needed to build a stronger, more vibrant state for generations to come.

My motivation and enthusiasm for the Alaskan people remains as strong as ever. With your support, I remain committed to defending and fighting for Alaska's future.
