Position Statement:

Statesmen and authentic public servants devote themselves not only to the present, but also to future generations. Politicians, on the other hand, focus on the next election. I aspire to be a statesman. It is true, to those who protect it, freedom has a special meaning the protected may never know. As a military veteran, former police officer and as a first responder, I have been humbled to carry the torch once held high by better men than I, many of whom gave their lives on our behalf, and left us a legacy of freedom and safety unknown in most parts of the world.

As a police officer, I am familiar with the challenges that members of the Alaska law enforcement community face as they strive to protect the safety and property of Alaskans on a daily basis. As a firefighter, I welcome the opportunity to fight other people's battles for them, and to use my training to protect lives and property. I will bring that experience and commitment with me to the state legislature.

Experience and philosophy both lead me to the strong conviction that Alaskan families are best served by limited government that empowers them to exercise self-government and enjoy the fruits of self-government handed down to us by American's founders. Parents should be empowered to choose the very best education for their children. Private enterprise should be empowered to create jobs through limiting excessive government regulation, and the pursuit of responsible resource development.
