Born and raised in Bethel, Tiffany is both Yup'ik and Polish. She is the daughter of Joe Hinz of Kipnuk and Patricia Zulkosky of Baudette, MN, and Bethel. Tiffany has experience in local, state, and federal policy and works full-time in external affairs at YKHC.

Position Statement:

Intending to pursue a career in journalism after university, opportunities would lead Tiffany to public service early in her career.

In 2007, Tiffany won an election to Bethel City Council. She served a year in her term, before being appointed by her colleagues to serve as Bethel's Mayor at the age of 24. Tiffany worked on federal policy issues with tribes and community leaders following an appointment to serve as Rural Director for U.S. Senator Mark Begich in early 2009. Tiffany resumed her career in public service in 2018, when she was appointed by Gov. Walker as the Representative for House District 38 in the State Legislature.

Growing up and working in the YK Delta developed and deepened Tiffany's respect, understanding, and commitment to the ways of life in her home region. She has enjoyed the privilege of elected office and working with policymakers and regional non-profits on complex policy issues that impact lives in rural Alaska. These opportunities taught her the importance of advancing community needs and cultural values prioritized in District 38.

Alaska is faced with historic fiscal and policy challenges changing the landscape of state government. Budget and policy solutions will require courageous leadership, willing to consider innovative approaches. In rural Alaska, the impacts to state-funded programs - like education, public safety, and healthcare - are wide-reaching and have long-lasting implications. Tiffany is committed to protecting critical services and programs, and the overall well-being of communities in rural southwest Alaska.
