Position Statement

Like many Alaskans, I was a split ticket voter in the previous election cycle. I have grown disappointed in our representation, that the D.C. culture has allowed the citizen to be forgotten. I have joined the race for our solo seat in the house, to make sure the voices of the people are heard and in turn amplified throughout D.C. and the country.

Two years is not enough time to fix all of the problems we face today. Two years is enough time to implement three positions that my platform is based on. The most pressing issue facing Alaskans today is the destruction of our oceans performed by Bottom Trawlers "Draggers." Such fishing practices are unsustainable, and Bottom Trawling must be outlawed in United States to ensure our food security. The second issue is the unaffordable housing in our nation. We must combat corporate warfare that has allowed companies to deprive citizens of their opportunity to own property. I believe that no corporation should be allowed to own single-family housing as described by the FHA. The final highlighted issue is the pressing insolvency of Social Security. Failure to secure this much relied upon benefit, while funding foreign wars, is nothing more than theft from the public. We will use these highlighted issues as a benchmark on my performance as your representative.
