Other (Biographical Information):

David Wilson has represented the Mat-Su in the Alaska State Senate since 2017. Prior to serving in the Senate, he served as a Wasilla City Councilman.

David is a principled, common-sensed and liberty-oriented conservative. David is married to a lifelong Alaskan who grew up on the Lower Yukon River. He has degrees in education and psychology and an MBA with a concentration in health service administration. He is a motivated and personable business professional with diverse experience.

David has been one of the most effective legislators in the state. Acting with integrity, honesty, and experience, he has promoted legislation and policies that support our families and ensure a bright and healthy future for all of Alaska.

Position Statement

Advocating for legislation and policies that bolster family support will contribute to a promising and healthful future for all Alaskans. That means protecting life, growing and strengthening our economy and job market, ensuring a strong affordable health care system, and protecting the rights and liberties of all Alaskans to live freely.

Some of my priorities include:

Behavioral Health – We must rethink how we respond to behavioral health issues, coordinating with law enforcement and health care professionals to allocate resources effectively and provide quality care.

Economic Development – A strong economy means a healthy future for Alaska and ensures our region remains competitive in economic development and job creation. I will continue to advocate for responsible investments in infrastructure and resource development.

Education – As we look forward to the future for our state, we need to recognize that education must be a top priority in order to empower and equip our young people for the jobs of the future. It is imperative that we continue working to put students first in classroom funding. We must encourage our most successful schools to grow and expand, and use their model to lift under performing schools to greater success.

Limited Government – I was raised to value hard work and personal responsibility. I understand that the government is not the solution to most problems and can sometimes even be the cause. I will support common sense reforms that reduce burdensome regulations and increase accountability and transparency.
