

Jeremy “Spike” Cohen – United States Vice President – Libertarian Nominee

Website: Jo20.com

Other:

My name is Jeremy "Spike" Cohen and I began my entrepreneurial career at the age of 17 by building a web design business that catered to small businesses which, at the time, did not yet have the technological tools to have a web presence.

By opening these opportunities to smaller companies, I filled a much-needed niche in the market. It was so successful that I was able to retire in my early thirties and begin working on my true passion: spreading the message of liberty to an audience who had likely never heard of it before.

Position Statement:

My running mate, Jo Jorgensen, and I are running on a platform of maximizing your freedom and personal liberty while, at the same time, minimizing the harm that inevitably comes from government interference in your lives.

We believe that you are better suited to make the important decisions that affect your life than any government agency and, to that end, we will end or reduce the size of every government agency in existence.

We will end the IRS so that you can keep all the fruits of your labor.

We will end the ATF so that you and your neighbors can defend yourselves in any way you see fit.

We will get the federal government out of schools so that families and communities can make decisions about how best to educate their children.

We will end the drug war and release its victims from their cages so that they can live productive lives again without the stigma of a felony conviction for victimless commerce.

We will end the endless wars and immediately bring our troops home, creating one giant Switzerland, armed and neutral.

A vote for Jo and I is a vote for freedom, prosperity, and peace. Learn more at jo20.com.
