Other:
I’m a third-generation Alaskan and a proud mom of four. I grew up in an Alaskan family that battled addiction, mental illness, and abuse, but I broke that cycle. I served Alaska under Republican and Independent governors and led a non-partisan grassroots movement to restore education funding and improve our schools.

I’m running for Congress as an Independent to work for all Alaskans and build a strong economy that supports small business, keeps our kids here, and puts Alaskans first in line for good paying jobs.

Position Statement:
We are facing a crisis and our leaders are not listening. It’s time for a new Representative who listens to and works for the people of Alaska, not Washington special interests.

Revitalize Alaska’s Economy: To fix our economy, we must build on our state’s strengths and attract the jobs of the future. We need infrastructure like ports, roads, and bridges, as well as high speed broadband internet in our rural communities. All of this will also help lift our small businesses, a critical part of our economy.

Reduce Costs of Healthcare: The cost of healthcare in Alaska is far too high. We don’t need representatives who take corporate campaign contributions and vote to increase healthcare premiums. We need representatives who will fight for lower prescription drug prices, protect Medicare, and ensure that women have the right to make decisions for their own bodies.

Support Working Families: Too many Alaskans are out of work or living paycheck to paycheck. We must ensure that all children get a quality education that leads to a good job. Our military families deserve our full support and our seniors must be able to retire with dignity. Further, it is time that Alaskan women receive equal pay for equal work.

I’ve fought for our children’s education, bringing Republicans, Democrats, and Independents together to deliver results for Alaska’s families. I will do the same for us in Washington, D.C.

It’s time for a new Alaskan voice in Congress. I would be honored to earn your vote.
