Mark S. Fish-Libertarian

Statement:

I first arrived in Alaska in 1962. My life here includes a 20 year career in Alaska's Army National Guard. I've spent time in virtually every corner of our state and know it's uniqueness well. I have served on the Alaska's State Commission on Human Rights and, for the past seven years, I have also served on the Citizen's Advisory Commission on Federal Area's, dealing with federal regulators, the public and issues relating to federal and state relations. This experience has given me a good understanding of the issues facing Alaska. My term as president of Airport Height Community Council, also shows my ability to work with diverse groups of individuals while pursuing our common interest.

While we have enjoyed many accomplishments in our state's history, such as construction of the Trans-Alaska pipeline, protection of our fishing industry and ensuring seniors have access to care, I believe we are at a critical turning point in our nation's history. Currently, President Obama and his Administration have laid their heavy hand of government over many vital Alaskan industries, jeopardizing our state's economic and social well-being by locking away our lands and oceans to resource development and pushing harmful federal policies upon Alaskan small business owners and families. Time and time again, we have seen the severe impacts of federal bureaucrats who believe they know best for Alaska. But as we all know, Alaska is not a "one-size fits all" state.

Statement:

National polls show that a majority of Americans are unhappy with the jobs the politicians are doing, both here in Alaska and across the U.S. As an Alaska Libertarian, I stand for individual rights, personal responsibility, and minimizing government. The two-party system has caused government to grow bigger and more intrusive every year. Since I am not a politician, and I belong to a third party, I will be able to follow my principles and veto expenses that do not benefit all Alaskans or that are not specifically guaranteed by our Alaska Constitution. I will be able to work with every legislator.

We don't want to bring back the State Income Tax. It was Libertarian Dick Randolph who sponsored the repeal of the State Income Tax; Alaska needs a Libertarian governor to fight the overspending in Juneau and bring our budget back to sustainable levels. As Governor, I will use my line-item veto power to shrink the budget back down to 5.5 billion dollars; to prevent deficit spending; and to prevent reinstating the income tax. I will fight to eliminate rules and regulations that interfere with liberty.

Independent Alaskan candidate for governor eenjit run ihlii. Khehkwaii dinjii its'ehiyaa ts'a' dii-progress tr'ohkit ineech'athat ch'ahathat partisan politics,juk et'ee lyaa t'eegwaahch'yaa.

Fiscal control. We are in the worst deficit in Alaska history, drawing down on our savings at a rate of $7 million a day. We can build ourselves out of this fiscal freefall.

Alaska history zhit deficit leii ts'a' tr'aadii. Drin gwit'ee gwaanchyaa saving gwats'an 7 millions tr'aahjii, datthak ts'a' chan jii fiscal freefall gwats'an tr'iineeraheedaa.

The key to every growing economy is low cost energy. A large volume gasline/LNG project financed by long term contracts with the world markets could generate over $400 billion over 30 years. Energy costs could be reduced by as much as 80% in some areas. Unfortunately, the current gasline study puts companies with competing projects in control. Alaska owns the gas. We must start acting like ranch owners, not ranch hands.

Economy dakneeroondak datthak low energy cost gwideetak dha'aii. Contract gwatchoo gwehee'aa with the world market aii gwats'an gas/LNG leii financed gwiheelyaa 400 billion gwataa t'igwiheejnyaa 30 years k'iindaa aii energy cost chan 80 percent zhak t'eehenjyaa. Low cost energy. Despite our resource wealth, we have the highest cost of energy in the nation. This drives Alaskans out of the rural Alaska, forces choices between food and heat, and send our retirees outside. Alaskans don't have to make these choices. We must stop studying the problem and start building the solutions.

Statement:

I will vote No on 1. Yes on 2. I oppose using tax dollars for private schools. I support repeal of the Alaska marriage definition amendment. I support equal protection under the law. We are a society of laws. Laws must be obeyed and enforced; if they are not worthy of either, then they must be repealed. I oppose the initiation of force. I recognize and support the natural right of self-defense. I fully support individuals' natural right to free association and to think and do whatever they like, so long as it does not harm another; even if they are knuckleheads. Government control, power, and responsibility should be as local and open as feasible.

Statement:

I am a lifelong Alaskan with a passion for this place and its people. From small town mayor to Permanent Fund manager, I know that polarizing partisanship is not how solutions are achieved. It takes leadership and hard work. I have a 50-year bi-partisan track record of bringing people together to tackle complicated issues. From universal, voluntary pre-K services to timely, predictable K-12 funding to expecting excellence in the classroom to reducing student loan interest rates, a strong education system attracts and keeps residents and grows the economy. It's the best investment we can make.

Energy: Energy costs are crippling. My first day on the job I will appoint an energy chief to coordinate and consolidate efforts to bring affordable power and fuel to all Alaskans, with an emphasis on innovation and conservation. While there's no single answer, there can and should be a singular focus on energy at the highest level.

The Economy: Alaska faces critical choices -- not in 10 or 20 years -- but now. Our state is in a dangerous situation: revenues don't cover costs and savings will be depleted within five years. Balancing the books while supporting vital public services is fundamental and urgent. Thirty years as a CEO and director of profit and non-profit organizations have prepared me well to work toward a balanced bottom line.

Lieutenant Governor
Maria P. Rensel—Alaska Constitution Party

Statement:

My objective is to help establish ballot access for the Alaska Constitution Party and to activate grass-roots effort in Alaska. I am unequivocally pro-life, pro-Second Amendment and pro-traditionally defined marriage. I support the Fully Informed Jury Association's stance on jury nullification and believe that we must reclaim the Common Law. State Sovereignty, Property rights and the protection of Sheriff's are issues becoming very important in many states, including Alaska, not admitted under equal footing doctrine. I support the decriminalization of marijuana and recent oil tax reform; I'll vote "NO" on 1 but believe Alaska must get its fiscal house in order by passing sustainable spending bills. During the petition gathering phase of my campaign I noticed several problems with both Division of Elections and APOC. Reforms would include a streamlined approach to ballot access; simplified campaign finance regulations and lower costs and easier access for competitive political parties. In all arenas I believe that the introduction of competition and innovation has a positive effect on the outcome, including in our public school system. I wrote, spoke and testified in favor of SJR-9 to allow the people of Alaska to vote to decide the new direction for educating future generations. I also believe strongly in independent home schooling, volunteerism and nullification. I am a student of the Austrian school of economics which supports entrepreneurialism and personal responsibility. Statement:

I am running as a candidate in house district 6 because I believe that our present form of governance which is top down did not serve the last generation well and will not serve future generations in rural Alaska either. The original framers of the state constitution spoke of a partnership between the people the state and embodied in communities and tribal governments. I will always believe that community leaders given the right tools can achieve the best results at the very local level no matter the issue whether it be infrastructure, education, roads, erosions or emergency responses. I believe that small business have long been overlooked as a source of stability in rural Alaska. More should be done for small businesses. On a larger scale Multi National Corporations who are in Alaska to extract resource, should practice the art of being good neighbors before coming in, they should be good neighbors while they are here and they should be good neighbors long after they are done. My highest priority is education.
